SPONSORSHIP OPPORTUNITIES FY21-22

ABOUT THE COMPETITION

JUMP into STEM is an online building science competition for undergraduate and graduate students at U.S. colleges and universities that aims to attract rising stars from a variety of majors to building science. The initiative seeks to inspire the next generation of building scientists, focusing on creative ideation and diversity in the building science field. With diversity at the forefront of the program, JUMP into STEM emphasizes the inclusion of an interdisciplinary mix of majors (e.g., computer science, mathematics, economics, policy, engineering) and students underrepresented in the building science field.

WHY SPONSOR

Your sponsorship provides unrestricted funds that will support the JUMP into STEM final competition event. Sponsorship funds are crucial to allow for the inclusion of more student teams in the final competition, as well as expansion of the reception, activities, and other benefits for final event attendees and challenge winners. Together, industry sponsors and the JUMP into STEM team provide an outstanding competition environment and opportunity to engage beyond the classroom.

This year's top teams, professors, and sponsors are invited to participate in person during the final event competition scheduled for January 28-29, 2022, at Oak Ridge National Laboratory's main campus in Oak Ridge,

Tennessee. Final event winners receive a 10-week paid summer internship at the National Renewable Energy Laboratory, Oak Ridge National Laboratory, or Pacific Northwest National Laboratory.
